Hivelifights

If you've visited the store recently you may have noticed that the observation hive is full to the brim with bees. They certainly were thinking about swarming - preliminary 'queen cups' were spotted and the queen was getting very restless, but the ugly weather we had in late August likely changed their minds! Now they're taking advantage of any warm weather to stockpile honey and pollen for winter.

Product of the Month

Comb Honey

Fall officially starts on September 20th, but you can keep the taste of summer around with fresh honeycomb!

Right out of the hive, our Comb Honey is full of deliciously sweet raw unfiltered honey and safe-to-eat wax that is often chewed as a healthy alternative to gum, or used in recipes. Curious as to how we make honeycomb? For a photo story summary, click here.

Mead Matters

Many of you will be thrilled to hear that our next batch Bodacious Black Current is almost ready! It's in the final stages, and though it is very hard and torturous work, members of the staff are tasting it to be sure it is just right. ;)

As of today's tasting the mead is very close to perfection, so expect new bottles of Bodacious Black Current on the shelf by the end of September!

Central Alberta mead fans will be glad to know that the Central Alberta Co-op Liquor Stores now carry Chinook Arch Mead. The top favourites of Melissa's Gold, John Cameron Classic, Black & Blue as well as Cherry Mi Amor are available!

Recipe from our Kitchen

From the Archives: Honeycomb and Brie Strudel.

Back in 2013 we came up with a beautiful recipe for a Honeycomb and Brie Strudel, and we thought it was so tasty that we had to bring it back. The result of this recipe is a perfect light crust filled with melt-in-your mouth sweetness. Click here for the recipe.

On top of that, we have also found a post on The Food Network website that has deliciously amazing ideas on how to use honeycomb. From chili to Brie English Muffin Pizza's, this page some great ideas so we really suggest checking it out! You can see it here.
